

SANCTUARY EXPLORATIONS

ELEPHANT SEAL WALK

Saturday, February 6th 2016 9:30am or 1:15pm

Join a Greater Farallones sanctuary naturalist and a State Parks interpretive guide for a walk through the Natural Preserve at Año Nuevo State Park to observe one of the largest mainland breeding colonies of northern elephant seals in the world! Every year up to 10,000 elephant seals visit to breed, give birth, and molt in this amazing park. Watch males battle for prime beach real estate and the right to mate, while females are birthing and suckling their newborn pups. Learn about the fascinating natural history, behavior and ecology of northern elephant seals while observing them first hand during this fun and dynamic walk!
